LOVE AND UNCLE SAM.

By Katherine Eggleston of The Vigilantes.

Dear mothers of soldier boys, wives of soldier men, sweethearts of soldier lovers, with the arms of our love round each other, let us reason together. From some of us surely, love's supreme sacrifice will be demanded. But it is not giving our best to death. It is seeing the soldier come home crippled or blind or deaf. Every heart among our aches in the giant grasp of pain at the thought. In the streets of London before this war began, there were crippled and blinded men, pitifully capitalizing their infirmity as they thrust their bit of green or bunch of lead pencils forward to cover the fact that they were beggars. In every other country where war has laid its devastating weight, there are such men. Even here, where we have pensioned the veterans of the Civil war, we have the tragic evidences consequent on men's knowing that they are not helping in the world's work.

These were the sons of mothers like you, the husbands of wives like you, the lovers of sweethearts. For a month or a year, the glory of their sacrifice burned brightly around them. They were heroes in love's eyes. They were petted and appreciated. Then, the routine of life swept on. The other men went back to business. Their wives and their mothers and their sweethearts went on with life accompanied by the agreeable support of their money-producing efforts. Perhaps, the men tried to make places for the maimed companions. But the dimming thoughts of the war were the most that began to shut the maimed ones away from participation in the life where they could render no service. The women who loved and clung to them had to find work to support themselves and the heroes. And, even they grew less conscious of the heroism and more conscious of the strain of making ends meet.

Worse yet, a deterioration set in within the mind and heart of the hero. It was not his fault that he could be of so little use. He had given more for his country than some of the men who were blessed with the favor and comfort resulting from active service and the accumulation of a competency. Bitter or discouraged or else just slipping without much resistance into the position of grocery-store loafer and court-house loafer, the hero of a time forgotten became a kind of tolerated zero in the life of his community—or an actual nuisance.

Dear mothers, wives, sweethearts, this is not a picture too highly colored. You know of men far-fallen from the heroic days when they came home bearing the signs of their great giving. Then, what would I whisper to the depths of your heart so sacred to your soldier-men? By the strength of the love you bear them, save their glory untarnished! How? There is work that a man without a leg can do with his two hands. There is work that a man bereft of sight can do by the sense of touch. There is work that a man whose arms are gone can do with his feet. Our blessed heroes can be taught work that will, in some instances, make them even more able to earn than they were before the war. The government is looking after this.

Then what can we do, mothers, wives and sweethearts? We can—and we must—give our men to the government a bit longer, give them till they are equipped to take men's places in the active world. It means holding our hearts that yearn so tenderly to have them again, in the strong grip of our common sense. When you ache to get them back, to have them right close to you, to make it all up to them, just remember that the mothers and wives and sweethearts of those men whom you now regard as ciphers, loved and yearned as you do. Just keep a tight hold on the thought that the shiftless, uncontributing member of society, who decorates a dry goods box or hunches up in a wooden chair at the court-house, came home to hearts that blazed with fervor as yours is blazing now. And save your men from what your eyes convince you is their certain future.

Six months or more under the wise hand of the government they have served. Six months or more of loving waiting on your part will bring you home a hero whose glory never can be dimmed by the smudgy hand of circumstances. Six months or more of positive encouragement will keep him from falling a victim to the despair that will come when your loved one returns to the life he has left robbed of the arm or leg or eyes which have been so essential. It is really up to us, the women whose love is the great rock of shelter and comfort for our men, to encourage—even to insist upon their taking advantage of the opportunities which the government will provide. Up to the women! We have not failed our men yet! We never will, not though the way we tread is red with our own heart's blood!

TALK OF THE TOWN

Mrs. Harry Dingwall is employed as a pastry cook at Hotel Barre.

A son, John S., was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Baer, 44 Academy street, on Oct. 1.

The funeral of James McK. Walker will be held at his home on Mount street Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

Owing to the illness of many of the clerks, the Shea Shoe store will remain closed during the rest of the week.

The G. C. I. A. rooms will be closed until further notice. Anyone having any special business can call James Smart, 16 Forsythe place. Tel. 629-J.

During the illness of E. L. Hudson of Academy street, Wilfred Ledden of Montpelier is acting as operator in the local office of the Western Union.

Harold Sault, the well known Randolph drummer, and Dwight Granger, also of Randolph but formerly of this city, were among the visitors with friends in the city yesterday.

Harry Stroutson of North Main street, who has been confined at the City hospital during the past ten days for treatment, following an attack of the grip, was able to leave the hospital yesterday forenoon.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Cano, who reside at Concord, N. H., arrived in Barre Tuesday evening to take care of Mr. Cano's brother, C. Cano, who is suffering with pneumonia. Mr. Cano was taken to the City hospital last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Turner and little son, who have resided in Hartford, Conn., for some years, have returned to Barre to make their home with the former's father, Frank C. Turner of South Main street. Mr. Turner is assisting for a time in the store of B. W. Hooker & Co.

Ralph Smith of North Main street returned to the city last evening from Burlington, where he complied with the regulations of the University of Vermont authorities in regard to enrolling in the students' army training corps upon the opening of sessions. Mr. Smith was a member of the 1918 graduating class of Goddard seminary.

Four Barre young men, Lowell Brown, Leonard Thompson, Tommie J. J. Charles Young returned last evening to Northfield, where they are enrolled in the students' army training corps at Norwich university, after attending the funeral of Cadet Edward Chandler, a sophomore at that institution, whose funeral was held yesterday afternoon at the Congregational church.

The funeral of Alexander Fowle, jr., whose death occurred at his home, 3 Glenwood avenue, Tuesday forenoon, will be held at the house Friday forenoon at 11 o'clock. Rev. Edgar Crossland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Because of the board of health restrictions on public gatherings, the services will be private. Interment is to be made in Hope cemetery.

Joseph Halligan of Granitville returned to the city last evening from New Haven, Conn., where he has been employed at the plant of a large automobile concern during several months, being called to this city to appear for physical examination before the local draft board. Previous to going to New Haven Mr. Halligan was engaged as a driver on one of the Granitville stages.

After days of rainy weather in which their efforts were seriously handicapped, the contractor and gang of laborers who are building a permanent highway on Washington street have seen enough of the silver lining behind the clouds to justify a beginning on the cement work. The first section of cement will be laid near the Mount street intersection, and if weather conditions are favorable cementing will continue on both sides of the car track as far east as Hill street.

To settle fewer than 40 boarding-house arguments in which a invariably telephones or writes The Times to inquire whether he or she is right in his contention, the following authoritative statement is made concerning the impending change in time. At 2 o'clock on the morning of Sunday, Oct. 27, standard time in the United States will be set back one hour to correspond with solar time. "Daylight saving," which has been a part of the nation's conservation plan for six months, will be no more after Oct. 27. The hands on the clock were moved forward one hour on the morning of Sunday, March 31.

Tidings reached here late Tuesday afternoon of the sudden death of Carroll J. Camp of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Camp of South Main street and other relatives surviving are his sister, Mrs. Earl Batchelder of Tremont street, and his brother, C. W. Camp of South Main street. Mr. Camp had resided for 15 years in Saratoga Springs, where he enjoyed the friendship of a large circle of acquaintances. Relatives of the deceased left the city yesterday for Saratoga Springs, where funeral services are to be held at his home, 90 Ludlow street, Friday afternoon.

A Barre friend of Private William H. Johnston, who is attending an army clerks' school in France, and who will be remembered as a well known amateur golfer and baseball player, hears from the young man as follows: "Labor day and a holiday. I received two months' pay to-day, so I'm in top-notch spirits. I've met quite a few fellows from home over here, among them Ray Allen of Montpelier. Here is a line on what the fellows at the front say about the Y. M. C. A., K. of C. and Salvation Army. They say the Salvation Army uses the soldiers the best. So far I have not run across the S. A., but the Y. M. C. A. in England, I considered, soaked us. At least things seemed pretty tight to me. However, in this town it has been pretty good, while the K. of C. here sets up a claret lemonade three nights a week. The fellows at the front, however, all recommend giving your extra nickels to the Salvation Army. I've learned many tricks of economy since joining the army, such as shaving, washing my clothes, etc."

SOUTH BARRE

Charles Adams, the milk dealer, is confined to his home for a few days with an attack of influenza.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bridger have returned to their home in Mattapan, Mass., after spending the past week at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Adams of this place.

G. H. Adams, Charles Falconer and Charles Persons are confined to their homes with the grip.

Mrs. Abbie Henry of Waltham, Mass., who was recently stricken with the grip, while visiting at the home of G. H. Adams, is slowly improving.

GRANITVILLE

John R. Macaulay Died Tuesday Night of Pneumonia.

The death of John R. Macaulay, son of Mrs. John Macaulay, occurred at his home in Granitville Tuesday evening, following an illness of the past 12 days of pneumonia, which developed from an attack of the grip. Mr. Macaulay was born in Storoway, Quebec, about 21 years ago and made his home in that place until within the past five years, when he came to this place and took up his residence. He was a young man of excellent habits and had the high esteem of all who made his acquaintance. He had been employed for some time as the quarry of the E. L. Smith Co.

Besides his mother, he leaves eight sisters to mourn his death, Mrs. Patrick M. Smith, Mrs. William McLeod, Miss Mary Macaulay of Granitville, Misses Kathryn and Sophia of Montpelier, Georgia, a student at Goddard seminary, Elizabeth, a student at Spaulding high school, and Mrs. George J. Seager of South Barre, wife of the superintendent of the Barre Town schools.

The funeral will be held from his late home in Granitville Friday forenoon at 9 o'clock; the interment being made in Wilson cemetery.

NORTH FAYSTON

Snow made us a visit for the first time Sept. 26, the mountains being white. A few from here attended the funeral of Private Somerville in Watfield.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Grandfield were in Watfield Friday.

Hugh Henry was in Moretown Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson Foss visited friends in town Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Maloney were week-end visitors in town.

Miss Nora Griffin visited the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Griffin, over Sunday.

Mrs. Will Nelson was taken seriously ill Wednesday night and the doctor had to be called.

Mrs. Chester Nelson is improving, so that she sits up.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Nelson, Gladys and Henry Nelson were in Montpelier on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheeler visited in town the past week.

Word was received in town Sunday of the death of Louis Roberts, which occurred at his home in Montpelier, following a short illness of pneumonia. Mr. Roberts made his home in this town for a few years and during that time gained a large circle of friends. He leaves a wife and five children. Mrs. Roberts has the deepest sympathy of her many friends here.

A few of the people here attended the funeral of Private Daniel Lee, which was held in Moretown Sunday.

Mr. Clark, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., gave a very interesting speech at the schoolhouse Sunday. Owing to the fact that a large number of people were unaware of his coming, the attendance was not as large as it might have been.

Dr. Campbell of Warren was in town Monday.
